Scheduling:

1. In most cases, students will have a normal weekly day/time which will be confirmed before the first of every month. Rescheduling is always allowed and in fact encouraged if it makes coming to your lessons easier, more fruitful and less stressful!
-When possible, please notify me at least 48 hours in advance.
Any request made within 24 hours of the lesson is subject to be marked a no-show except in the event of an emergency.
2. Sickness is inevitable, I get it! If you are feeling too sick to make your lesson, I ask that you let me know ASAP so I can plan accordingly. Any sickness related cancellation not made more than two hours before the lesson is subject to be marked as a no show.
3. Flexibility is important to me in order to accommodate my sometimes crazy performance schedule. I will follow the same expectations above as my bare minimum but if there is a conflict I am aware of at the beginning of the month, you will know before payment is made.

Show up when it's difficult! One of the most important lessons I took away from my studies at Oberlin with Professor Slowik was the importance of showing up exactly how you are. Not every lesson will feel good in the moment but some of my most important moments of growth came from lessons where I hadn't prepared as well or I wasn't feeling up to it so I was honest and took the opportunity to go back to basics in order to mentally and physically reset.

No Show Policy:

- A lesson will be marked as a no show if the student fails to show up after 10 minutes of the lesson start time
- I always reach out after 5 minutes in the event the lesson slipped your mind or you're just running late
- A lesson marked as a no show will not be made up nor refunded

Payment Information:

All lesson payments should be made monthly and are due before the first lesson of the month
